Anderson .Paak

"Mall Elf"

Anderson .Paak voices Mall Elf in the Disney+ animated holiday special "A Proud Family Wizmas."

A nine-time GRAMMY® Award-winning artist, producer, songwriter, director and author, .Paak continues to redefine music and culture. From playing drums in his church band in Oxnard, California, to releasing critically acclaimed albums such as "Venice" and "Malibu," his rise has been nothing short of remarkable. He reached new heights with duo Silk Sonic alongside Bruno Mars, earning multiple GRAMMY Awards and a sold-out Las Vegas residency. .Paak also introduced his DJ alter ego, DJ Pee .Wee, and is supporting Bruno Mars on tour throughout 2026 while preparing for a highly anticipated solo album.

Beyond music, .Paak remains a dynamic force in film and media. He premiered his directorial debut, "K-Pops!," at the Toronto International Film Festival in 2024 to critical acclaim, followed by a limited theatrical release and worldwide Netflix release in 2026. The film received a "Certified Fresh" rating on Rotten Tomatoes and was accompanied by the soundtrack "K-POPS! (Music From and Inspired by K-Pops! Motion Picture)," featuring major K-pop artists.

As part of NxWorries with producer Knxwledge, .Paak released the album "Why Lawd?," which won Best Progressive R&B Album at the 2025 GRAMMY Awards. In addition to his nine GRAMMY wins, he received a 2025 BET Award nomination for Video Director of the Year and was honored on the 2026 TIME100 list. .Paak continues his philanthropic work through the Brandon Anderson Foundation and its annual .Paak House event, alongside initiatives with his label, APESHIT Inc., in partnership with Universal Music Group.
