SYNOPSIS/ OFFICIAL BOILERPLATE:

“The Beatles Anthology” the landmark documentary series exploring the life and times of the most influential and beloved band of all time, as told by The Beatles themselves, will make its streaming debut exclusively on Disney+ beginning November 26. Beautifully restored and expanded from eight to nine episodes, the series offers an unprecedented and intimate view of The Beatles’ legendary trajectory and inner workings.

The newly illuminating ninth episode features previously unreleased footage of Paul McCartney, George Harrison, and Ringo Starr during the creation of the original 1990s “Anthology” series and music project. The series spans the band’s gritty, hungry early days, to the phenomenon of Beatlemania and global superstardom. John Lennon, Paul McCartney, George Harrison, and Ringo Starr take us along for the ride as they revisit the highs and lows and twists and turns of The Beatles’ long and winding eight years as a band. “The Beatles Anthology” was originally broadcast in 1995 in the U.S. on ABC and in the U.K. on ITV, followed by a blockbuster, GRAMMY Award®-winning home video release. For Disney+, several elements of the series have been updated, including an incredible footage restoration and sound mix overseen by the Apple Corp. production team working with the supremely skilled technicians at Peter Jackson’s Park Road Post in Wellington, New Zealand.

“The Beatles Anthology” episode 9 is directed by Oliver Murray. Episodes 1-8 are directed by Geoff Wonfor, Bob Smeaton, and Matthew Longfellow. All episodes are produced by Paul McCartney, Ringo Starr, Olivia Harrison, Sean Ono Lennon, Jonathan Clyde, and Martin R. Smith.
