Carmenita Higginbotham

Art Historian

CARMENITA HIGGINBOTHAM, Ph. D. is known for her research on 20th century American art, examining how notions of “the city” have had an impact on representation. She has lectured extensively on the history of American art, popular visual culture and art film, and has been a featured scholar and consultant on the PBS “American Experience” documentary on Walt Disney and CNN’s “The Movies.” She authored the book The Urban Scene: Race, Reginald Marsh, and American Art, and is currently dean of the Virginia Commonwealth University School of the Arts.
