

Caroline Rhea "Linda Flynn-Fletcher"

Actress and comedienne Caroline Rhea reprises her role as Linda Flynn-Fletcher in Disney+'s original animated adventure movie "Phineas and Ferb The Movie: Candace Against the Universe." The movie follows stepbrothers Phineas and Ferb as they set out across the galaxy to rescue older sister Candace, who has been abducted by aliens and finds utopia in a far-off planet, free of pesky little brothers.

A veteran entertainer, Rhea began her stand-up comedy career in 1989 and soon became an integral part of New York's comedy scene. She has been featured on numerous television shows, feature films and comedy specials, and also hosted her own variety talk shows, "The Caroline Rhea Show" and "Caroline & Friends," a family-friendly comedy series showcasing funny videos featuring animals, kids and comedy.

Rhea's television sitcom credits include the lead role of Aunt Hilda in the long-running ABC comedy series "Sabrina The Teenage Witch," as well as guest appearances on Disney Channel's "The Suite Life of Zack & Cody," "Curb Your Enthusiasm," "2 Broke Girls," "The Drew Carey Show" and "The Chris Isaak Show." Additional television credits include "The Grinder," "Manhattan Love Story," Freeform's "Baby Daddy," "Pride & Joy," "A Christmas in Tennessee," the "Bruno & Boots" franchise and "Fools for Love." Her feature film credits include "A Very Sordid Wedding," "The Perfect Man," "Christmas with the Kranks" and "Man on the Moon." Currently, Rhea stars as Judy Reynolds in Disney Channel's comedy series "Sydney to the Max."

An accomplished writer and producer, Rhea's illustrious stand-up career includes a variety of one-hour comedy specials, including "Rhea's Anatomy" and "Funny Girls" for Bravo; "Comic Relief VIII," "Women of the Night" and "One Night Stand" for HBO; and "Comic Come Home IV" and "Pulp Comics" for Comedy Central. Most recently, Rhea headlined Showtime's "More Funny Women of a Certain Age" and "The Comedy Central Roast of Alec Baldwin."

Rhea's sharp wit and universal appeal have also made her mainstay on several comedy game shows, including "Hollywood Squares," ABC's "Match Game," "Funny You Should Ask," "The Halifax Comedy Fest" and "Comics Unleashed."

A native of Montreal, Canada, Rhea currently splits her time between New York and Los Angeles.