Tess Romero
“Young Elena”

Tess Romero is rapidly emerging as one of young Hollywood’s ones to watch.

She will next star in the new Disney + series “Diary of a Future President“ as Elena. The Gina Rodriguez produced series, follows 12-year old Cuban-American Elena and her journey to becoming the future president of the United States while navigating the ups-and-downs of middle school.

Romero hails from Brooklyn, NY and got her acting start at a very young age. When she was just five years old, Romero landed a role in “Annie,” and by the age of seven she landed roles on both the NBC drama “Blindspot” and Comedy Central's “ Alternatino.”

In addition to acting, Romero has studied dance and singing since the age of eight. She loves the fine arts and is an avid reader.
