

Zach Woodlee
Choreographer

Zach Woodlee is the choreographer for "High School Musical: The Musical: The Series," a reinvented take on the two-time Emmy® Award-winning "High School Musical" franchise, for Disney+.

Most notably, Woodlee was the choreographer for the Emmy award winning series "Glee," where he also served as a producer for five seasons. Woodlee also choreographed and co-produced Fox's live event special "Grease Live." His other television credits include "The Glee Project," "How I Met Your Mother 100th Episode," "Eli Stone," "Supergirl" and "Bones."

In addition to his television success, Woodlee has choreographed for numerous box-office hits including "Glee: The 3D Concert Movie," "27 Dresses," "Eat Pray Love," "Dumplin'" and "Love, Simon." He has also contributed to "Hairspray," "Step Up," and "17 Again."

Born and raised in Mesquite, Texas, Woodlee grew up dancing at his mom's dance studio. Woodlee currently resides in Los Angeles.
