Melvin Mar

Executive Producer

Melvin Mar began his career at Dreamworks SKG, Scott Rudin Productions, where he built a solid relationship with "Orange County" director Jake Kasdan. They have since worked together on films including "The TV Set," "Walk Hard: The Dewey Cox Story," "Bad Teacher," "Sex Tape," "Jumanji: Welcome to The Jungle," the sequel "Jumanji: The Next Level," and the hit television comedy "New Girl." Mar served as an executive producer on ABC's "Fresh Off the Boat," "Bless This Mess," and "Speechless," and FOX's "Weird Loners" and "The Grinder."

Mar and Kasdan have an overall deal at Twentieth Century Fox Television where they are developing comedies and dramas for cable, streaming and network television. Their latest show, "Doogie Kamealoha, M.D." will premiere on Disney+ in the fall.

Mar lives in Los Angeles with his family.
