Peyton Elizabeth Lee

"Lahela 'Doogie' Kamealoha"

Peyton was recently seen as lead in Disney's family superhero film "Secret Society of Second Born Royals," which was developed by Disney with her direct input as a franchise vehicle for her. For her performance, she was nominated for a Critics Choice Award for Best Lead Actress in a Superhero Film.

Peyton is most well known for playing the title character on Disney Channel's "Andi Mack." "Andi Mack" has been the number one rated show on Disney Channel and the highest rated cable television show across all youth demographics. It has been well received for breaking new ground in young adult television by touching upon previously taboo subject matter for the genre. She also recurs on the Disney animated series "The Lion Guard" and appeared on the first season of ABC's "Stumptown." Her other past TV credits include a recurring role on Showtime's "Shameless."

She has also been named to both Variety's Youth Impact Report and The Hollywood Reporter's Top Stars Under 18.
