

Élodie Yung
"Queen Catherine"

Élodie Yung stars as Queen Catherine and Sam's mom in the upcoming Disney+ original movie "Secret Society of Second-Born Royals." The Queen loves both of her daughters and sends Sam to summer school in hopes that she will assume the responsibilities expected of any royal.

Yung is likely known best for playing the role of Elektra in the "Daredevil" series and reprising the role in "The Defenders" series. Born in Paris and of Cambodian descent, Yung started her acting career in France booking roles on popular French television series and films including "La Vie Devan Nous," "Fragile," "Les Bleus" and the international hit "District 13 Ultimatum."

Prior to "Secret Society of Second Born-Royals," Yung starred alongside Gerard Butler in the adventure fantasy film "Gods of Egypt," and Ryan Reynolds and Samuel L. Jackson in the action comedy flick "The Hitman's Bodyguard." Additional feature film credits include international blockbuster "The Girl with the Dragon Tattoo" and "GI Joe 2: Retaliation" with Dwayne Johnson.

Yung recently landed the starring role in the upcoming FOX pilot "The Cleaning Lady." She will also be seen in the feature film "Hunters in the Dark."

After earning her law degree at the University of La Sorbonne, Yung followed her lifelong passion of acting and enrolled and graduated from the London Academy of Music and Dramatic Arts. Yung also has a black belt in karate and extensive experience in the martial arts.

Yung currently resides in Los Angeles.