Executive Producer

Joel Collins is executive producer for the upcoming season of "Doctor Who," streaming Friday, May 10 on Disney+ where available.

Collins joined the production company Bad Wolf in 2017, helping to launch the "His Dark Materials" trilogy with Jane Tranter and Dan McCulloch.

Collins began his career as a creature designer in 1992 on projects such as "The Flintstones" and "Muppet Treasure Island," gaining experience at the world-famous Jim Henson's Creature Shop in Camden, London. He went on to become an award-winning production designer, playing a key role in the creative team Hammer and Tongs, designing the films "The Hitchhiker's Guide to the Galaxy" and "Son of Rambow." Collins' role evolved from designer to editorial creative following his close collaboration with Charlie Brooker on the award-winning anthology series "Black Mirror," where he used his strong creative voice to combine complex narratives and craft the series' iconic design, VFX and graphic languages. After almost seven years and 19 episodes (four seasons) of "Black Mirror," Collins left the show in 2017.

Collins has won multiple awards for production design, VFX and titles and brings his vast creative experience to Bad Wolf.
