

BIOGRAPHY

Luke Kirby "Chuck Brooks"

Luke Kirby is an Emmy-winning actor from his portrayal of Lenny Bruce in "The Marvelous Mrs. Maisel". Luke will soon start work as the series lead in "Etoile" for Amazon, the next show from Amy Sherman-Palladino and Dan Palladino. This past year Luke has appeared in the MGM film "Dark Harvest" directed by David Slade, as well as in a leading role in the second season of DR. DEATH for Peacock. Luke stars opposite Rosemarie DeWitt in the upcoming Disney+ film OUT OF MY MIND, which will premiere at this year's Sundance Film Festival. Luke appears in the lead role of the Spectrum Originals series "Panhandle". He starred in Amber Sealey's "No Man of God" alongside Elijah Wood which premiered at the 2021 Tribeca Film Festival.

On stage, he starred in Odon von Horvath's critically-acclaimed play, Judgement Day, at New York's Park Avenue Armory. Luke is also known for his role as Gene Goldman in "The Deuce" for HBO. He can be seen in M. Night Shyamalan's "Glass", and Nia DaCosta's "Little Woods", opposite Tessa Thompson, in Netflix's "Tales of the City" as Tommy opposite Jen Richards, and on Facebook's "Sorry for Your Loss" opposite Elizabeth Olsen.

Other credits include Dreamworks' "A Dog's Purpose", directed by Lasse Hallström, and "Take This Waltz", directed by Sarah Polley. TV credits include "Gossip Girl" (HBOMAX); "The Company You Keep" (ABC); "Little Voice" (Apple); "The Twilight Zone" (CBS All Access); "The Astronaut Wives Club" (ABC); "Rectify" (Sundance TV); "Show Me a Hero" (HBO); Slings & Arrows (Sundance Channel). Theatre: "Too Much, Too Much, Too Many" (Dir. Sheryl Kaller, The Roundabout Theatre Company); "Defender Of The Faith" (Dir. Ciaran O'Reilly, Irish Repertory Theatre); "Jump/Cut" (Dir. Leigh Silverman, The Women's Project); "Troilus and Cressida" (Dir. Peter Hall, Theatre For A New Audience).