

Marcus T. Paulk
"Myron Lewinski"

Marcus T. Paulk reprises his role as Myron Lewinski in Disney+'s "The Proud Family: Louder and Prouder," the long-anticipated revival of the groundbreaking animated series "The Proud Family."

A Los Angeles native, Paulk began street performing in California's popular Venice Beach at the age of three. His parents saw the passion and skill he possessed while performing and they knew that their son was destined for greatness and decided to take more leadership roles in preparing his career for the future.

The gos played a pivotal role in the awakening of the talents that Paulk possessed. In 1991, Paulk lent his voice to the animated show "Hammerman," created by hip hop legend MC Hammer. Afterward, Paulk guest starred on some of network television's most notable television series including, "Me and the Boys," "Thea," "Grace Under Fire," "Martin" and "The Fresh Prince of Bel-Air." In 1996, Paulk heightened his career as alter ego Myles Mitchell on "Moesha".

With Paulk's ambition on the rise, he not only continued to do more television appearances, but began to make his mark on the big screen with supporting roles in "Safety Patrol," "Nothing to Lose" and "One Night Stand." In 2005, Paulk co-starred in the blockbuster hit "Roll Bounce," next to hip hop artist and fellow actor Bow Wow. The following year, Paulk co-starred in another blockbuster film, "Take the Lead," starring Antonio Banderas, in which he had to train in the art of ballroom dancing. In 2007, Paulk starred in "Parental Guidance Suggested" and "Taking Five." Paulk can also be spotted in "Another Cinderella Story" and on the film soundtrack.

Paulk has gone on to become a lead in George Lucas' blockbuster film "Red Tails," "Sister Code," and guest starring in season three of "Double Cross." He has also produced and directed films. He will next have a starring role in "Bomb Pizza," which will have a soundtrack co-produced by himself and J Stone.

Paulk is also CEO of VVS Models, a modeling company. He has won numerous championships with his NBAE League basketball team and is in the process of releasing his first LP as a hip-hop artist under the stage name "MP".

Paulk currently resides in Los Angeles.
