Ralph Farquhar is executive producer of Disney+'s "The Proud Family: Louder and Prouder," the long-anticipated revival of the groundbreaking animated series "The Proud Family."

Farquhar developed and executive-produced Disney Channel's "The Proud Family" and "The Proud Family Movie," his first animated project.

Farquhar began his career writing for the classic ABC series "Happy Days." After which, he quickly advanced into the producing ranks as supervising producer for "Married... with Children" and then moved on to develop, executive produce and create several award-winning series including "South Central," "Moesha" and "The Parkers," and executive-produced "Real Husbands of Hollywood," for which he earned an NAACP Image Award. He also wrote the cult classic hip-hop feature film "Krush Groove."

In December 2020, Farquhar and his producing partner, Bruce W. Smith, entered a wide-ranging, multiyear overall deal with Disney that calls for them to produce animated and live-action series and movies for Disney Branded Television. The agreement provides separate funding for them to find and develop emerging talent as well as leverage their combined experience to bring unique projects and voices to Disney.

A native of Chicago, Farquhar attended the United States Military Academy at West Point and graduated from the University of Illinois with a degree in Communications. He currently resides in Los Angeles, California with his wife Melba, his sons Regan and Jeremy, and his two grandchildren Samira and Nathaniel.
