THE STORY OF A MOUSE

BIOGRAPHY

Randy Haycock

Animator

RANDY HAYCOCK has worked in the animation industry for 31 years and at Walt Disney Animation Studios since 1992. After contributing animation to such notable Disney features as “Aladdin,” “The Lion King,” “Pocahontas” and “Treasure Planet,” he went on to the role of supervising animator on “Hercules” (Baby and Young Hercules), “Tarzan” (Clayton), and “Atlantis” (Princess Kida). His animation credits also include the CG films “Chicken Little” and “Meet the Robinsons.” Haycock returned to traditional hand-drawn animation for “The Princess and the Frog” (supervising the animation of Prince/Frog Naveen) and “Winnie the Pooh” (supervising Eeyore). He also served as Drawover Lead on “Moana.” Most recently, he was supervising animator for the hand drawn “Disney Presents Goofy in How to Stay at Home” episode “Learning to Cook.” He is currently doing traditional animation for special projects at Disney Parks around the world. A native of Colorado, Haycock has taught animation at California Institute of the Arts (CalArts) and at Art Center, as well as online at AnimationMentor.com
