

BIOGRAPHY

Stony Blyden

“Trey”

Stony Blyden stars as Trey in the new season of the hit series “Goosebumps,” inspired by R.L. Stine’s worldwide bestselling books.

He is a talented prodigy musician, drummer, singer and rapper. After Pepsi discovered Blyden, they built a campaign that starred him being surrounded by world famous footballer Lionel Messi, singer Janelle Monáe and more.

His previous credits include recurring arcs on Hulu’s “How I Met Your Father,” Disney+’s “Big Shot” and Disney+’s “American Born Chinese.”

Blyden also had a series regular role in “Bluff City Law,” opposite Jimmy Smits; starred in the feature “Life in a Year” with Jaden Smith, Cara Delevingne, and Cuba Gooding Jr.; and had supporting leads in the Indie features “The Standoff” and “Dude.” Additionally, he was in the pilot “College,” produced by Channing Tatum and the Jason Blum series “Run for Your Life.”

He can soon be seen in “You’re Cordially Invited” alongside Will Ferrell and Reese Witherspoon.