

BIOGRAPHY

Josh Goldsmith & Cathy Yuspa

Executive Producers, Showrunners

Josh Goldsmith and Cathy Yuspa are a husband and wife writing team. They are currently the co-creators, executive producers, and showrunners of the streaming series The Mighty Ducks: Game Changers for Disney+ starring Emilio Estevez and Lauren Graham. They served as showrunners and executive producers of the long-running CBS comedy The King of Queens (starring Kevin James and Jerry Stiller). On the feature side, Josh and Cathy wrote the romantic comedy 13 Going on 30 (Jennifer Garner and Mark Ruffalo) and the movie What Women Want (Mel Gibson and Helen Hunt), which was remade as the gender-flipped What Men Want (Taraji P. Henson).

Josh and Cathy created and executive produced the ABC comedy Big Day, as well as the FOX comedy 'Til Death, for which Josh directed several episodes. They've also written for multiple network series, including The Goldbergs on ABC, and have recently written screenplays for Warner Brothers and Dreamworks Animation. They are also adapting 13 Going On 30 into a Broadway musical. In addition, Josh and Cathy composed The King of Queens theme song. They received MFAs from the film school at the University of Southern California, and as undergraduates attended the University of Pennsylvania (Josh) and Stanford University (Cathy).
