

Disney CHIP 'N' DALE Park Life

BIOGRAPHY

Vincent Artaud
Composer

Vincent Artaud is composer of Disney+'s original animated laugh-out-loud series "Chip 'n' Dale: Park Life." The series follows nervous worrier Chip and laid-back dreamer Dale who are trying to live the good life in a big city park while having giant-sized, sky-high adventures.

Throughout his almost 30 year career, Artaud has written arrangements for noteworthy albums including "Around Robert Wyatt" with Orchestre National de Jazz and contributed to several popular music recordings with Henri Salvador, Patrick Bruel, Dany Brillant and Angélique Kidjo. He also performed the film score for "The Artist," directed by Michel Hazanavicius.

Artaud has released three albums: "Artaud," "La Tour Invisible" and "Music From Early Times."

In 2011, he joined Xilam Animation and wrote the music for numerous properties including "Oggy and the Cockroaches," "FloopaLoo, Where Are You?," "Hubert & Takako," "Paprika," "Lupin's Tales," "If I were an Animal," "Rolling with the Ronks!" and "Zig & Sharko."

Artaud's love of music was discovered at an early age when his parents introduced him to jazz great Charles Mingus, Herbie Hancock and Charlie Parker. Born and raised in Annecy, France he currently resides in Paris, France.
